 - Emergency Medicine: Academic Forum - 1/7/2025

Description:

Emergency Medicine: Academic Forum is a series that applies a robust, multifaceted learning approach for improved emergent patient care across the interdisciplinary team.

Series Objectives:

- 1 Content addresses management of complex emergency medicine cases using most recent evidence-based literature and best practices with emphasis on translating knowledge to clinical practice.
- 2 Perform clinical procedures using correct technique with higher success and fewer complications.
- 3 Utilize quality improvement and patient safety data and best practices to make significant changes to the clinical environment.
- 4 Develop and teach topics using effective educational methods to ensure engagement, understanding, and retention
- 5 Apply core Emergency Medicine knowledge to patient care.

Session Objectives:

- 1 Formulate comprehensive treatment plans for mastoiditis, including criteria for antibiotic selection, indications for surgical intervention, and strategies for managing potential complications such as intracranial spread or acute otomastoiditis.
- 2 Investigate contemporary challenges in Emergency Medicine system design, including patient safety protocols, quality metrics, resource allocation strategies, and methods for integrating evidence-based practices into departmental workflow and resident training programs.
- 3 Create individualized spaced repetition study plans that align with emergency medicine residency curriculum requirements, incorporating evidence-based learning techniques to optimize knowledge retention, clinical decision-making skills, and ongoing professional development.
